Winter storms keep county road crews busy

Planning, less snowfall than forecast softened blow

BY BOB DEMAREE

Jefferson County has been digging out of snow most of the week and County Highway Superintendent Bobby Phillips provided a report on those efforts to County Commissioners at their meeting Thursday evening.

"I would tell you guys what I have been doing, but I think you've got a pretty good idea. I have seen too much snow," Phillips said. "The crew has been extremely busy. We have literally worked around the clock. From the time that the snow was coming in, it was impossible to get everybody home, so we basically split up the crew so we could keep a night shift. That worked out very well. There were some emergency calls getting to first responders and fire trucks, and just trying to keep everything safe."

Phillips said he couldn't "say enough about the crew. We've had multiple hiccups. There have been multiple challenges as it goes with our terrain with the snow. We've had a lot of help from each other, from contractors, farmers, first responders, fire departments," he noted. "It's events like this you can literally see people helping people."

"Kudos to the guys out there. I know they've been busting their tails the last few day," Commissioner Bobby Little said "The roads are in pretty decent shape considering what we were faced with."

Main Street to manage Farmer's Market

Takeover begins in May with continued input of farmers, vendors

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Madison Main Street Program will take over management of the Madison Farmer's Market after months of negotiations with the market's advisory committee "Madison Main Street program is excited to begin managing the Farmers Market of Madison, Indiana. Many consistent shoppers at our downtown businesses, also frequent the Farmers Market each Saturday and we know this synergy will continue our mission to support local businesses, farmers, producers, and creators," said Main Street Executive Director Austin Sims.

The Madison Farmers Market is the oldest farmer's market in the state of Indiana with roots stretching to the city's founding in 1809. Under the agreement, many elements of the farmer's market will remain the same including the summer hours. The farmer's market also will remain located around the Broadway Fountain in downtown Madison every Saturday from 8 a.m. until noon from April to October.

The Market Advisory Committee will continue to manage the winter farmer's market until the Madison Main Street Program takes over management in May. Members of the Market Advisory Committee are committed to maintaining their involvement in the farmer's market by joining as members of the Madison Main Street Farmer's Market Committee.

The blaze destroyed the building but firefighters prevented spread to two other nearby structures. Dupont Fire Department was assisted by Kent Fire Department and Madison Township Fire Department.

BY BOB DEMAREE

Battling through frigid temperatures and a snowstorm, county firefighters have been pushed to the limit this week with multiple fires in different locations throughout Jefferson County.

"It has been a busy week for our firefighters," said Madison Township fire chief Robert Black, whose department worked two big fires on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning and then several others over the rest of the week. "We appreciate all their hard work and dedication."

In all, Black said Madison Township has been involved in nine fire calls since Tuesday either as the primary responder or to provide mutual aide.

On Thursday morning, fire destroyed the home of Terry Hatton in the 100 block of South

Jefferson and Switzerland counties see improvement in COVID-19 numbers

Trimble rate listed as critical

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Jefferson and Switzerland counties in Indiana have both improved enough to move into the "yellow" metric in terms of COVID-19 infection rates while, Carroll County is in the "orange" and Trimble County is still in the more serious "red" based on the latest updates in Kentucky.

Indiana reported six new cases of the caronavirus and three new deaths in Jefferson County, bringing the county's totals to 2,911 cases and 70 deaths since the pandemic began last March. So far 14,552 Jefferson residents have been tested — including 24 in the most recent update — and the county's seven-day positivity once again showed improvement to 5.4% with a unique individual positivity of 12.8% and a county metric of 1.5.

Switzerland had no new deaths but seven deaths total and only one new positive case with 748 overall out of 3,762 tested. The county's positively rate has improved to 7.9% and the 15.4% unique positivity rating has moved the county into the "yellow" metric.

While the data is handled slightly different in Kentucky, the state still uses colored metrics to identify which counties are hardest hit by the coronavirus. Carroll County, with 868 total cases and 10 total deaths, has a statewide incidence rate of 21.5% while less populous Trimble, with a total of 607 cases and five deaths, is at 27.0% — putting Carroll in the "accelerated" designation and Trimble in the "critical" zone in terms of community infection rates.

Meanwhile, Indiana posted data showing 44 new deaths and 11,989 overall and 1,080 new positive cases and 653,235 overal. There have been 7,683,034 COVID-19 tests in Indiana — 32,422 of those most recently — for a 4.4 seven-day positivity and 11.3% unique positivity.

Kentucky has now reported 292,729 cases overall and 4,373 deaths with a 21.374 statewide incidence rate.

Meanwhile, the winter storm that coated Indiana with heavy snow disrupted thousands of coronavirus vaccine appointments and delayed the state's timeline for expanding shots to additional populations.

Madison couple arrested on drug charges in Ripley

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

A Ripley County traffic stop on Tuesday resulted in the arrest of a Madison couple on various drug charges on Tuesday.

The incident began when a deputy with the Ripley County Sheriff's Office stopped a vehicle for following too closely and reckless driving. During the stop the officer allegedly established probable cause to search the vehicle and found 6.5 grams of cocaine along with other drugs.

The driver, Dustin Cutshall, 30, and passenger, Brittany Mefford, 24, both of Madison, were arrested and lodged in the Ripley County Jail in Versailles, Indiana.

Mefford, who remains incarcerated, is charged with Trafficking in a Controlled Substance-Cocaine, a Level 5 Felony; Possession of a Controlled Substance, a Level 6 Felony; and Possession of Controlled Sustance and Possession of Paraphernalia, both Class A Misdemeanors.

Cutshall, who is no longer listed as an inmate, is facing unspecified drug charges.

Firefighters put water on the smoldering ruins of a pole barn in the 8200 block of North Middlefork Road in Lancaster Township Wednesday. The blaze destroyed the building, which included a woodworking shop and storage.

FIRES

Brooksburg Main Street in Brooksburg. Hatton had been gone for a short time and when he returned home found the home fully engulfed in flames, according to Milton Township Fire Chief Troy Ayler. In addition to the home, Hatton lost two Huskie dogs in the fire, which Ayler said firefighters recovered and helped to bury in the backyard.

Ayler received the fire call at 9:37 a.m. after neighbors reported seeing flames on the roof. Jefferson County Sheriff's Department deputies were first on the scene and began fighting the blaze while Milton Township Fire Department firefighters arrived next.

When Ayler arrived he said flames had spread throughout the entire house. There was a propane tank near the house that he said was a cause for safety concerns but firefighters were successfully able to control the blaze enough to keep it from reaching the tank.

Ayler said he didn't know the cause of the fire, but that it seemed to start in the area of a wood stove. Firefighters battled the fire until 1:30 p.m. and then returned early that evening when the fire rekindled. There were no injuries in the fire other than the pets.

Ayler said the house had recently been remodeled, and that Hatton lost "antiques and glassware and things that can't be replaced" in the blaze.

Four tankers were used to shuttle water from a fill site three miles away in Lamb. Milton Township Fire Department received assistance from Rykers Ridge Fire Department and Madison Township Fire Department, along with Jefferson-Craig Fire Department from Switzerland County.

On Wednesday afternoon, fire also destroyed a pole barn in the 8200 block of North Middlefork Road in Lancaster Township. The pole barn was part of property owned by Gary and Pamela Jackson, and located behind a house. Residents were home when they noticed the barn on fire. The house and another structure were near the pole barn, but Dupont Fire Chief George Canfield said firefighters were "able to contain the fire to that one building."

The pole barn, which Canfield said included a woodworking room and storage area, was totally destroyed. The fire was reported at 4 p.m and firefighters battled the blaze and were then on the scene until about 8:30 p.m. Canfield said one of the challenges was that the fire got into some clothing that was stored in the building and that the blaze kept going as it burned through the clothes. He said the cause of the fire has not been determined.

Kent Fire Department assisted Dupont Fire Department with a tanker truck. Also, Madison Township Fire Department provided manpower and water. The Jefferson County Highway Department assisted by spreading salt and cinders to keep roadways safe for emergency vehicles and trucks hauling water. King's Daughters' Hospital was at the scene on standby with its emergency unit but there were no injuries.

On Thursday at about noon, Black said Madison Township firefighters had just returned to their firehouse from assisting with the Brooksburg fire when they got a call-out concerning a fire in the 100 block of Horizon Drive in Madison Mobile Village. The resident was home when he saw smoke coming into the trailer through the duct work. Black said the fire was caused by wires that had shorted out underneath the trailer.

"We got it knocked out really quick," said Black, adding damage was limited to a water line and insulation under the trailer. He said the water line underneath the trailer actually assisted in putting the fire out. The water pipes were plastic and "as the fire melted the water pipes, water began pouring out."

Rykers Ridge Fire Department assisted at the scene.

Finally, on Friday at 4:24 a.m., Madison Township responded to a vehicle fire in the 5000 block of US 421.

"When the vehicle started, it made a sound and started burning," said Black, adding that firefighters were able to respond quickly and the fire was out within 15 minutes of the call.

"The car was destroyed," said Black. "Anytime you have fire in a car, it's totaled" because ruins the mechanics of the vehicle. There was also damage to a nearby shed.

Once again Rykers Ridge Fire Department assisted at the scene of the vehicle fire.

Brown County State Park added to National Register of Historic Places

BY SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Brown County State Park's recent addition to the National Register of Historic Places makes it the state's largest historic district.

Listing as a historic district recognizes an area that has a high degree of historical integrity in its buildings, structures and landscapes. To be eligible, a district is required to have been associated with events, developments, or people that were important in the history of the state or country. In addition, districts on the National Register must be at least 50 years old and look much the way they did in the past.

"It's a great honor for our park to be listed on the National Register," said Patrick Haulter, the park's interpretive naturalist. "It really speaks to how important this park is, not only to the people who live here, but to everyone."

The state park, located near Nashville, Indiana, first opened in 1929. In the park's early years, with growing interest from the public, several facilities were developed, including Abe Martin Lodge and overnight cabins. A large portion of the facilities work done shortly thereafter came via the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC), whose members built many of the other existing buildings, shelters, roads, vistas, trails and Ogle Lake, as well as the west lookout tower.

"Much of the CCC's legacy is what is being honored with this listing," said Ben Clark, cultural resources manager for the Division of State Parks.

CCC Veterans Company 1557 started its work in the park in 1934, planting forests of trees to help address the severe erosion on hillsides that had been cleared by settlers for timber years before the land was acquired by the state.

Now, with nearly 16,000 acres, Brown County State Park is the largest state park in Indiana and one of the most popular.

Indiana Landmarks staff authored the nomination, partnering with the DNR and supported by local preservation group Peaceful Valley Heritage. Researchers for the nomination documented nearly 70 buildings, sites, and structures that contribute to the park's historical significance.

"The natural and built environment blend seamlessly at Brown County State Park, making it a place that is cherished by all Hoosiers," said Mark Dollase, vice president of Preservation Services at Indiana Landmarks. "We greatly value our partnership with the Department of Natural Resources to recognize and preserve the park's many important historic places."

Brown County State Park is the sixth Indiana state park to be listed on the National Register, joining Pokagon, Mounds, Shakamak, Turkey Run and Fort Harrison state parks. Several other Indiana state parks have individual buildings listed. Examples are Tepicon Hall at Tippecanoe River State Park, the Stanley Schoolhouse at Chain O'Lakes State Park, and the Lusk Home at Turkey Run State Park.

Brown County State Park is on State Road 46 just outside of Nashville.

Troy Morgan, Emergency Management Agency Director, noted that conditions "weren't as bad as they could have been." He said plenty of planning and a break in snowfall predictions the National Weather Service forecast last weekend helped soften the blow.

"We had an EMA office meeting to talk about plans and resources," he said. "I think that was a great thing. It was encouraging to have everybody come together and find out what was out there that we may take advantage of should the need arise."

Morgan did apologize that the Town of Hanover was not informed of that meeting. "I take full responsibility for that," he said. "It was not intentional. It was unfortunate. I apologize to them for any inconvenience or hurt feelings. Just put that out there officially on the record that it was an oversight on my part. It was still a good meeting. I have talked to the folks at Hanover since then, I hope that everybody understands."

Morgan is hopeful the county may soon put winter weather behind it and get a break with warmer weather.

"We're moving along, and it's supposed to warm up here in a couple days. I think it is going to rain and be above freezing on Sunday, so maybe we can get rid of some of this mess,. If we can keep the streams and creeks in check, we'll be OK."

Phillips encouraged county residents to continue to be aware of road conditions even as temperatures begin to warm. "When this starts to melt, when it gets to 50 degrees, the ditches are full of water, it's going to be in the road, so please be alert," he said.

In other business:

• Commissioners President David Bramer reported that now that a construction manager has been hired for the new jail project, they plan to have bids back in April. After that, Bramer said there is a 30-day window before bonds can be awarded and he anticipates excavation work to start in June.

Additionally, the Commissioners voted to update a contract with Construction Control Inc. of Fort Wayne as owner's representative for the construction project at a flat rate of $14,000 per month, rather than the hourly rate of $150 per hour. Bramer said the firm has helped the county to already save approximately $1.5 million on the project.

"He's had our back the whole way through," Little said of Jack Krouse, president of Construction Control Inc.

Bramer said Construction Control asked for the change because "as things ramp up in the construction he is going to need to spend more time, it would be better to go with a flat fee rather than an hourly rate." Bramer added that Krouse has "far more experience than we will ever have in the jail industry. Thank goodness because if it was left up to us, we would be floundering. We're glad that we are paying a little to save quite a bit."

Commissioner Ron Lee noted that a meeting to discuss re-use of the old county jail is set for 3 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 24, at the Jefferson County Public Training Center on Green Road in Madison.

• A public hearing was held related to a grant the county is seeking from the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs for small business loans related to COVID-19 recovery. The loans are to help retain low-to-moderate income jobs with an outreach emphasis toward businesses owned by minorities, women and veterans. Erica Cline, who is overseeing Jefferson County's grant process, said the county's application for the next phase of the grant is being finished and due March 11. She said the awards will be announced April 15, and at that point Jefferson County will know whether it will receive the grant. If the county is awarded funds, a match of local funds will be required from the Commissioners budget with the approval of County Council.

• Rick Sauley, of RLS Insurance Group, met with the Commissioners to discuss terms of the county's liability insurance for 2021-2022. He said the premium will be $102,453, which is a slight increase over the last premium of $98,954, but noted that after an audit the county had paid an additional $7,305, so that makes the premium about the same or even slightly less than the previous contract. He also informed the Commissioners about grant money possibilities for county safety equipment.

• Awarded a contract for paving county roads from the state Community Crossing Grant. Bids had been received at the Feb. 5 meeting with Dave O'Mara Contractors of North Vernon submitting the lowest bid at $1,024,093, but Commissioners wanted to review terms of the bid before awarding the contract.

Let Us Pause To Honor The Memory Of

Ms. Kristen Alexandra Croxton

Ms. Kristen Alexandra Croxton, age 34, of Madison, Indiana entered this life on August 15, 1986 in Madison, Indiana. She was the loving daughter of Garry Wayne and Rebecca "Becky" Jane Ogburn Croxton. Raised in Jefferson County and the Hanover community, Kristen graduated from Southwestern High School in 2005 where she excelled in art. Four years later, she graduated from Hanover College with degrees in studio art and art history. The recipient of the Greiner Art Award, she strived as a student. Her Senior Project merited permanent display honors in the college art gallery. To enhance her art expertise and style even more, she later took industrial technology classes at Ivy Tech Community College. Kristen was a loving mother to her son Kota who was born on October 13, 2009. The mother-son team was extremely close and she devoted her life to his upbringing and care. She instilled her passion for life, evident in Kota's outgoing personality. Her legacy will live on through him. She considered Kota the best and most important thing in her life and always endeavored to provide her young son with new experiences, such as piano lessons, zoo trips, soccer and other sports. She nurtured friendships and took him to church, with hopes to instill faith in God which will certainly be a comfort in his grief. Most importantly, Kristen promoted family interaction. Kota is surrounded by a close-knit family, thanks to his mom making sure the unit remained a core support group and a huge part of his life. She was a self-proclaimed freelance artist. She painted as a hobby and found the endeavor very therapeutic. As her family and friends can attest, Kristen was always sharing and gifting her artwork, plus professionalizing it in many ways. She frequently conducted art classes for children as well as Wine & Canvas sessions at a local gallery. Her art has graced a number of galleries and local establishments, presently including Bad Apple Mac's and Central Hotel where patrons frequently purchase her work. In addition, she served as a consultant for local projects, including customized wall murals, and most recently a custom boat design. Although Kristen loved focusing on art, she doubled as a dedicated employee at Jendy's Pizzeria in Hanover. A member of Madison Art Club since 2005, Kristen also illustrated a children's book series, Healing Feelings, authored by Patrice Joy. The three books were geared for families, K-12 school projects, home school students, special-education activities, autistic and dyslexic individuals, mental health professionals, boy/girl scouts, church curriculum, juvenile delinquency, rehabilitation and camp programs. Benefits frequently attributed to the series and Kristen's accompanying art entailed • less stress • improved health • stable moods • more energy • restful sleep • enhanced communication • improved reading and learning skills and • more peace and joy in life. Full of light and love, Kristen exuded a contagious, positive outlook, always helping others less fortunate. Many times, she quietly provided food and shelter, a ride, a piece of her art, a listening ear and always a caring heart. She expected nothing in return and always put the needs of others before her own. Her free-spirit personality was enviable. She loved to be outdoors, where she could enjoy nature with her beloved canine companion Tommy following along. She loved photography and playing the guitar, whimsical and spiritual pastimes that she was learning on her own. She once commented, "When I pray, I don't bow my head, I raise my hands to the sky and thank God above with the song in my heart, usually Twinkle Twinkle Little Star, on my guitar." Kristen, a devout Christian, was a follower of Jesus. Her faith was abundantly present in her daily outreach with family and friends, personal social media and works of art. She deeply valued her membership with Trinity United Methodist Church in downtown Madison and her church families at Mt. Byrd Christian Church in Milton, Kentucky and Hanover Baptist Church in Hanover, Indiana. Kristen passed away in a car accident Sunday, February 14, 2021 near her parents' home in Milton, Kentucky.

A LOVING FAMILY

Kristen will be missed by her loving her son, Kota Bear Croxton Perry of Milton, Kentucky; her heartbroken parents, Garry and Becky Ogburn Croxton of Milton, Kentucky; her companion, Jason Davis of Trimble County, Kentucky; her maternal grandmother, Olivene Ogburn of Carrollton, Kentucky; her loving sisters, Misty Cassady and her husband Jerrell "J.C." of Fishers, Indiana, DeAndra Good Taylor and her husband, Joshua of Erlanger, Kentucky; her loving brother, Anthony Scott Good and his wife, Amanda of Grand Forks, North Dakota; her nieces and nephews, Robert Good, Cora Spieth, Kiernyn Cassady, Kyan Cassady, Risden Cassady, Mary Taylor and London Taylor; her uncles and her aunts, David Ogburn of Carrollton, Kentucky, Wesley and Brenda Ogburn of Eminence, Kentucky, Doncella Butters of Madison, Indiana, Anna Ogburn of Gustine, Kentucky, Dawn and Frank Ongkiko of Plainfield, Illinois, Wilma Stone Holliday of Winchester, Kentucky, Ricky and Christy Graham of Wichita Falls, Texas, Bobby and Colleen Graham of North Dakota, Steve Graham of Fairfield, Kentucky; her great aunts and her great uncles, Carrie Ogburn of North Carolina, Jerry Beech and Dinah Handlon of Madison, Indiana, Linda and Dale Burchfield of Texas, Thelma and Lyndon Ricketts of Turner Station, Kentucky; her cousins, Jonathan, Luke, Caleb, Josh, and Jake Ogburn, Bethany Ogburn Wilfong, Christina Butters, Andy and Jennifer Parks, and Lilly, Mario and Mica Ongkiko; and other relatives. She was preceded in death by her maternal grandfather, Donald Grant Ogburn, died September 27, 1993, her paternal grandparents, Donald Ryan Croxton, died September 15, 2009 and Daisy Irene Beech Croxton, died May 25, 2014, her uncle, Roger Ogburn, her aunt, Linda Lou Croxton.

Mrs. Linda Ruth Cutshall Perry Kilgore, age 75, of Hanover, Indiana entered this life on April 30, 1945 in Carrollton, Kentucky. She was the loving daughter of the late John and Pauline Wise Cutshall. She graduated from Trimble County High School in 1963 and then from the House of James Beauty College. On December 11, 1965 she was united in marriage to Richard Leon Perry in Bedford, Kentucky. This union was blessed with a daughter, Jyll and a son, Jason. The family moved to Hanover in 1971 and she owned and operated the Hair Cottage in downtown Madison. She also became a vet tech and worked for the Hilltop Veterinary Clinic for Dr. Jones and was a groomer as well. She was a member of the Hanover Baptist Church and also attended the Cornerstone Baptist Church in Hanover. Linda loved listening to Conway Twitty, Elvis and Fabian. She was very fond of her cats, Skyler and Tyler. Linda died on Wednesday, February 17, 2021, at 6:40 a.m. at the Hanover Health & Rehab Center in Hanover, Indiana.

A LOVING FAMILY

Linda will be missed by her loving daughter, Jyll Perry O'Shea and her husband, Brendan of Louisville, Kentucky; her loving son, Jason Perry of Hanover, Indiana; her grandchildren, Clare Madailein O'Shea, Grace Eimile O'Shea, Michael Cody Perry; her step son, Ron Kroger, Jr. and his wife, Debbie of Hanover, Indiana; her uncle, Edward Wise of Wise's Landing, Kentucky; numerous cousins and other relatives. She was preceded in death by her father, John Cutshall, her mother, Pauline Wise Cutshall, and the father of her children, Richard Leon Perry, died August 26, 2012.

OBITUARY

Phillip Haley

Phillip Earl Haley, 69, of Greenbrier, Tennessee, died Tuesday, Feb. 16, 2021, at the Skyline Medical Center in Nashville.

He was born April 16, 1951, to Robert Lester and Emma Lou Jackson, the 10th child to sharecroppers in Cedar Hill, Tennessee. He was raised on a farm in Russellville, Kentucky, and learned the value of hard work from milking cows to mowing yards. He graduated from Adairville High School in Adairville, Kentucky, in 1969, and received his electrician license from Russ Vocational School in Bowling Green, Kentucky. He was a journeyman and held a Master Electrical License in Kentucky. He was a member of Bethlehem Missionary Baptist Church in Goodlettsville, Tennessee, where he volunteered as unofficial maintenance man, adding new lighting throughout the church and installing security cameras and LED light accents. He was similarly generous with family and friends. He married Patricia Ann Edwards on May 24, 2003, at Barren River State Park in Glasgow, Kentucky. He was employed as an electrical technician for Tyson Fresh Meats, retiring on Aug, 1, 2020 after 17 years service. He had previously worked as maintenance supervisor for BathFitter in Madison, Tennessee, for All American Homes in Springfield, Tennessee, Knight Electric in Russellville and for Kendall Corporation in Bowling Green. He was a problem solver and an inventor. He and his wife loved to fish, especially on their pontoon boat, and spent much time at Lake Malone State Park near Dunmore, Kentucky. They also took their grandkids fishing. He also enjoyed hunting, mowing and other yard work.

Survivors include his wife of Greenbrier and formerly of Switzerland County, Indiana; his children, Phillip Bruce Haley and Christina Blake, both of Auburn, Kentucky, Steven Shuler of Exeter, California, David Shuler of Franklin, Kentucky and Daniel Shuler of Seymour, Indiana; four sisters, Betty Sheldon and Martha Jane White, both of Springfield, Barbara Hyams of Russellville and Gracie Hyde of Greenbrier; two brothers, Ernest Haley of Oakville, Kentucky and Jerry Haley of Russellville; and 24 grandchildren, five great grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; a brother Robert Haley and stillborn brother Lester Haley Jr.; two sisters, Frances Balance and Emma Laura Haley; and two nieces.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 24, 2021, at the Haskell & Morrison Funeral Home in Vevay, Indiana. Visitation is 11 a.m. until time of services Wednesday at the funeral home. Due to COVID-19 restrictions, masks and social distancing are both required.

Funeral Services in Tennessee will be at 6 p.m., on Saturday, Feb. 20, at Austin & Bell Funeral Home in Greenbrier. Visitation is 2 p.m. until time of services Saturday at the funeral home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Bethlehem Missionary Baptist Church. Cards are available at the funeral homes or online at www.haskellandmorrison.com and www.austinandbell.com.

MARKET

"This transition is really good news: it's an indication that the market is growing. The vendors have been running market for the last five or so years now, and we're excited to say that we've outgrown ourselves! We're excited that by bringing market under Main Street, we can bring in some real expertise with marketing and publicity, grant writing, and just growing the number of customers and vendors. Main Street was clear from the start that they want farmers and vendors to have lots of input and to serve on the market committee. It just feels like a natural and strong relationship," said Market Advisory Committee Chair Liz Brownlee.

Madison was one of the first three original Main Street pilot communities in the United States, which started in 1977. Madison Main Street, a 501©3 nonprofit organization, is designated by Indiana Main Street as a nationally accredited Main Street America program.

The local Main Street organization sponsors many projects that assist businesses and bring people downtown, including Music in the Park, Girls' Weekend and the Main Street Loft Tour. For more information or for questions about the 2021 Madison Farmer's Market, e-mail madisonmainstreetprogram@gmail.com or call 812-274-0385.

COVID-19

More than 80 clinics around the state closed due to the weather — Jefferson County for the most part remained open — and upwards of 43,000 vaccine appointments will need to be rescheduled, the state health department's chief medical officer Dr. Lindsay Weaver announced.

Most clinics did not remove vaccines from their freezers ahead of the winter weather, which spared doses from being wasted, Weaver said.

Vaccine shipments to Indiana were also interrupted, health officials said. By midweek, the state still had not received its weekly allocation of Moderna vaccines.

As a result, Indiana won't yet expand vaccine eligibility beyond those aged 65 and older. Health officials said they hope to make shots available to the next age group — the state's 432,000 60- to 64-year-olds — as early as next week, once shipments get back on schedule.

"We will see how the weather continues to impact our shipments, but hopefully we will be able to expand as soon as sometime next week," Weaver said, emphasizing that the state will need a "large influx" of vaccine before further widening eligibility to the 858,000 Hoosiers aged 50 and above.

There is still no timeline in place for Indiana's teachers and other essential workers to become eligible for COVID-19 shots, however.

Gov. Eric Holcomb said Indiana should be getting a "small increase" in vaccine doses moving forward, although he expressed concerns about vaccines that will soon be provided to federally qualified health centers and community health clinics within Indiana.

Holcomb said health officials want to be able to monitor "need and supply" with the state's current system, in addition to tracking who is getting vaccinated.

"We're never going to turn away more doses, we love that," Holcomb said. "But we want to know where the doses are going."

Weaver said more than 60% of the state's eligible populations have already been vaccinated or have appointments to get shots.

That total includes about 57% of Hoosiers 80 and older, 65% of Hoosiers aged 70, and older, and 56% of Hoosiers aged 65 to 69. The number also includes about 68% of eligible health care workers and first responders, in addition to nearly 98,000 doses that have been administered to residents and staff in long term care facilities, Weaver said.

To date, about 17,000 out of state residents have received vaccine who live in neighboring states but work in Indiana.

Weaver maintained the state's vaccine wastage "has been minimal," noting that of the more than 1.3 million doses Indiana has received so far, only 172 doses have been lost.

Elswhere, Kentucky plans to open 28 more COVID-19 vaccination sites in preparation for the time when vaccine supplies will be much more plentiful, Gov. Andy Beshear said Thursday.

More than 555,000 Kentuckians have received at least their first dose of vaccine, but the state's ability to provide shots still far outpaces available supplies, the governor said.

Kentucky's network of inoculation locations will grow to 291 with the new openings, which include regional centers in Albany, Cadiz, Campbellsville, Hartford, Marion and Maysville, according to the governor's office. New sites opening in partnership with Kroger include Bardstown, La Grange, Lebanon, Louisville, Madisonville, Morehead, Mount Sterling, Owensboro, Somerset and Walton.

Other new sites are scattered across the state.

"There is a provider that has vaccine close to where everybody lives in the commonwealth," Beshear said at a news conference. "There are some areas where you might have to drive just a little bit further, but we continue to build this out."

Kentucky is set to receive another 29% increase in COVID-19 vaccine supply from the federal government starting next week, Beshear has said. Recent increases haven't kept up with demand, which means providers have limited supplies as the buildup of vaccination sites continues, he said.

"We don't have nearly what we could put in people's arms," Beshear said. "And every time we add sites, and we add them for convenience, it does split up the pie in more and more amounts."

Meanwhile, Kentucky is relaxing coronavirus-related restrictions at some of its long-term care facilities. Indoor visitation will resume at non-Medicare-certified facilities that have been through the COVID-19 vaccination process, Beshear said. Group activities, communal dining and visitations among vaccinated residents will resume, he said.

Included in the updated protocols are assisted living facilities, personal care homes, intermediate care facilities for people with intellectual disabilities and independent living centers, Beshear said.

"It's been a long journey and it's exciting to be able to relax some restrictions," said state Cabinet for Health and Family Services inspector general Adam Mather.

People will be expected to schedule their visits with the facility, and up to two visitors from the same household can visit a resident at one time, state officials said.

Visitors will need to show proof of a COVID-19 vaccination or a negative COVID-19 test within 72 hours of the visit. The new protocols will take effect today.

In Rembrance Of

Dennis Wayne Clubb

Dennis Wayne Clubb, 65, Westport, Indiana, passed away on Tuesday, February 16, 2021 at the Aspen Place Health Campus in Greensburg.

Born, June 5, 1955 in Madison, Indiana, he was the son of Gayle and Laura (Chadwell) Clubb.

Dennis graduated from Hanover Southwestern High School and then attended Ball State University. He had worked for his dad at Gayle Clubb & Sons and then he worked as a kitchen supervisor at Madison State Hospital for many years.

He loved cooking and he catered in his spare time. He also enjoyed interior decorating.

He was married to William Schoettmer in 1981 and he survives.

He is also survived by one brother, Rodney Clubb, Madison; two sisters, Debbie (Dean) Ford, Dupont, Donna G. Martin, Madison; several nieces, nephews, and cousins.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one brother, Robert D. Clubb.

Visitation for family and friends, observing CDC and state guidelines for social distancing and facial coverings will be held on Monday, February 22, 2021 from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. at the Porter-Oliger-Pearson Funeral Home in Greensburg. Memorial Graveside Services will be held on a later date.

Scams and fraud target those most vulnerable

Layin' It on the Line

By Stephen Dybwad
Retirement Planning/
Wealth Management

"The COVID pandemic has made it worse. But COVID isn't the only reason hucksters continue to make their home on Wall Street." – Steve Dybwad

2021 hasn't even had a chance to break a sweat, and there's already a major Wall Street scam on the books.

The US Department of Justice (DOJ) and the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) have issued indictments against a New York private placement firm. GPB Capital was charged with wire fraud, securities fraud, and conspiracy in a Ponzi-style scheme that skimmed nearly $1.8 billion from investors.

The GPB incident is hardly the first time that fraudsters have been caught gaming the system. This latest Ponzi scheme does, however, beg the question of whether it is even possible for ordinary investors to avoid getting caught up in a system that seems to have a high level of manipulation.

Around 2,000 people found themselves caught up in the scandal involving GPB and various affiliates and associates of those companies. According to a recent class-action lawsuit filed on behalf of Florida and Texas plaintiffs, many victims were retirees.

According to the SEC, the principals of GPB lied to investors about the source of their 8% annualized payments, claiming that the money came from profits generated by GPB's portfolio companies. Upon examination, regulators discover that many of the distribution payments came out of investors' funds, a Ponzi scheme. According to the SEC, GBP may have manipulated financial statements to avoid scrutiny. The SEC further claims that both GBP mislead investors about the compensation and fees and prevented their employees from disclosing violations.

Yet, a punishingly low-interest rate environment pushes people, even over the age of 65 and already in retirement, to make risky financial moves to make gains.

Economist and bestselling author Charles Hugh Smith observes why Wall Street insiders continue to execute scams boldly. Smith believes it's because scamming is easier and quicker than playing by the rules. Says Smith, "the truth has emerged from the shadows despite the silence of the insiders and financial media…The stock market is nothing but one giant fraud."

In the past, many financial scandals were quickly dismissed and attributed to "bad actors." However, recent events have revealed the truth.

How do you avoid being misled and being exposed to a scam vortex?

If you are someone within five to ten years of retiring or already retired, then you need to have a realistic plan to help you avoid losing money in retirement.

1. Carefully choose a financial advisor. Always seek and verify the advisor's credentials, paying special attention to their online reputation. Look beyond their website or glossy marketing materials to determine if this advisor's attitudes toward money align with yours. Ask for references and call them; know who you are dealing with prior to agreeing to a relationship.

2. Ask questions. How long has the advisor been in business? What designations does the advisor hold? Does the advisor charge fees" Id so what is their fee schedule?

3. Be diligent with companies with whom you work. Once you've found a financial guide, be sure you know about ALL the companies with whom this person is affiliated. Just as is the case with your advisor, companies to whom you entrust your precious savings need to be well-established, with impeccable credentials.

4. Ask the advisor for a written plan and then verify the categories. Do not place all of your important retirement money in one source, diversify. Be sure to create a solid "core." Having a guaranteed income stream when you retire will go a long way toward giving you peace of mind. Put a reasonable amount of your portfolio into safer money instruments, such as annuities, life insurance, bonds, bank products, and other less market exposed assets. When you've done this, you will feel more confident asking your advisor to recommend investments that give you more growth.

Bottom line:

Market scams have been with us since the first stock was sold. Unfortunately, though, scams and their boldness and audacity have been on the rise since the global financial crisis of 2008.

Partnering with an honest advisor who puts your interests first will help you achieve reasonable growth while avoiding losses to fraudsters. As you near retirement, exercise greater diligence in every facet of your financial life and remain skeptical of investments that seem too good to be true.

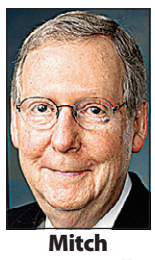
Trump-McConnell feud threatens GOP's path to power

BY STEVE PEOPLES
JILL COLVIN AND BRIAN SLODYSKO
ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Former President Donald Trump is escalating a political war within his own party that could undermine the Republican push to fight President Joe Biden's agenda and ultimately return the party to power.

Donald Trump



Mitch McConnell

A day after blistering Mitch McConnell, the Senate's top Republican, as a "dour, sullen and unsmiling political hack," Trump repeated his baseless claim this week that he was the rightful winner of the November election in a series of interviews with conservative outlets after nearly a month of self-imposed silence.

Trump continued to attack McConnell, accusing the Senate GOP leader of failing to stand up for Republicans after McConnell blasted Trump for inciting the Jan. 6 U.S. Capitol riot despite voting to acquit the former president at his second impeachment trial.

"The Republicans are soft. They only hit their own, like Mitch," Trump complained on Newsmax. "If they spent the same time hitting (Senate Democratic leader Chuck) Schumer and (President Joe) Biden, the Republicans would be much better off, that I can tell you."

Republican officials in several battlegrounds carried by Biden, including Georgia and Arizona, have said the vote was fair. Trump's legal claims surrounding the vote were rejected by judges across the political spectrum, including many appointed by the former president. McConnell himself described Trump's contention as an "unhinged falsehood."

Leading GOP strategists described the exploding feud between the Republican former president and the Senate's most powerful Republican as, at best, a distraction and, at worst, a direct threat to the party's path to the House and Senate majorities in next year's midterms.

"I don't think he cares about winning," Steven Law, a McConnell ally who leads the most powerful Republican-aligned super PAC in Washington, said of Trump. "He just wants it to be about himself."

South Dakota Sen. John Thune, the No. 2 Republican, likened Trump's insults to "food fights within the family" that hurt the Republican party's goals. Thune voted to acquit Trump, but called his falsehood that the election was stolen "inexcusable."

"I think it's just important to tell people the truth," Thune said. "The most important responsibility of any leader is to define reality."

Law noted that Trump lost several states where Republicans face must-win Senate elections in next year's quest to break up Democrats' control of Congress, including in Arizona, Georgia, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. Republicans are also competing in Nevada and New Hampshire, where Trump was defeated, and in North Carolina, where Trump barely won.

If Trump tries to make himself "the center of attention," Law said, "that actually could cost Republicans seats in the general election."

Such infighting is not altogether unusual after a political party loses the White House, but in this case, the feuding factions have been willing to attack each other publicly. And there was a broad consensus on Wednesday that the ugly intra-party clash would likely extend well into next year's congressional primary season.

The stakes may be higher this time, however, as key players — Trump, among them — have openly threatened the prospect of creating a new political party, which would endanger the Republican Party's very existence.

Roughly 120 anti-Trump Republicans, including current and former officeholders, secretly convened earlier in the month to contemplate the future of the GOP. A plurality, or 40%, supported the idea of creating a new party, according to an internal survey provided by one of the meeting's organizers, former independent presidential candidate Evan McMullin.

"There's a lot of energy out there for something new," McMullin said, while encouraging Trump to follow through with his threats of creating a Patriot Party. "Frankly, I would welcome him to start a new party and take his most loyal supporters with him. I think that would be a wonderful thing for the party and the country."

Trump's plans for the future are still coming together in West Palm Beach, Florida.

He has been banned from Facebook and Twitter for inciting violence, but on Wednesday, he broke his monthlong silence, giving his first interviews since leaving the White House after the death of conservative commentator Rush Limbaugh.

Leading GOP strategists described the exploding feud between the Republican former president and the Senate's most powerful Republican as, at best, a distraction and, at worst, a direct threat to the party's path to the House and Senate majorities in next year's midterms.

On Newsmax, Trump said his team was still exploring its options for returning to social media and "negotiating with a number of people," while still keeping the option of building his own platform on the table.

"We're looking at a lot of different things, but I really wanted to be somewhat quiet," Trump said, sidestepping repeated questions about whether he intends to run again in 2024.

"Too early to say," he said, while acknowledging that he missed being president.

Still, Trump said that he has had no problem communicating when he wants to by issuing statements — and has made clear this week that he will not retire quietly.

The former president hurled a series of personal insults at McConnell in a fiery written statement Tuesday. Mainstream Republicans were perhaps most concerned about his threat to support primary challengers against Republican candidates who don't fully embrace his "Make America Great Again" philosophy.

Some feared that Trump might encourage Rep. Marjorie Taylor Greene, R-Ga., to run for the Senate, though there was no evidence of that. The fears hark back to the GOP's struggle a decade ago when a handful of tea party candidates with baggage emerged from their Senate primaries and stymied the GOP from retaking a majority.

In Indiana, Richard Mourdock defeated six-term Sen. Richard Lugar in the 2012 primary, but he imploded after a debate in which he said pregnancy resulting from rape "is something that God intended." In Missouri, Republican nominee Todd Akin lost after he insisted on a local talk show that women's bodies have ways to avoid pregnancy in cases of "legitimate rape."

And in Delaware, tea party favorite Christine O'Donnell beat a longtime GOP congressman before losing by a landslide in the 2010 general election following reports of personal financial difficulties, questionable use of campaign funds and allegations that she had "dabbled into witchcraft."

Now that Trump has invigorated a similarly populist movement, Republicans need to recruit candidates who can navigate a pro-Trump primary and maintain statewide appeal while not alienating establishment-minded donors. That's no easy task.

The Senate Republican campaign arm, led by Florida Sen. Rick Scott, will not get involved in open primaries. But McConnell's advisers have not ruled out the possibility — even if it draws Trump's ire.

"You can't let insanity go unchecked, or it will eat you alive," said Josh Holmes, a top McConnell political adviser.

"He just wants to win," he said of McConnell. "If he has to act as a heat shield, so be it."

Meanwhile, Trump broke his monthlong media blackout Wednesday, calling into Fox News, Newsmax and OANN and repeating what Democrats have labeled his "big lie": his insistence that he won the 2020 election, even though he lost to Biden by millions of votes.

Dozens of judges, local election officials and even his own administration have said there was no evidence of mass voter fraud, but that hasn't stopped Trump from saying there was, even after the riot at the Capitol building that left five dead.

"Well, Rush thought we won. And so do I, by the way. I think we won substantially," Trump told Fox.

He did not call out McConnell by name, but he acknowledged critics within his own party: "We don't have the same support at certain levels of the Republican system."

Meanwhile, Law sought to downplay Trump's grip on the Republican Party. He noted that Trump's approval rating among Republican voters, at close to 80%, stands at a similar mark to that of former President George W. Bush following the Iraq War and the 2007 financial meltdown.

The focus on the next election cannot be Trump, he said.

"We will do everything we can to make the focus Joe Biden and the Pelosi-Schumer Congress. We can win with that," Law said. "The challenge is if there's a way in which Trump finds a way to make himself the focus next fall."

NOTICE OF EXECUTION OF LEASE BETWEEN JEFFERSON COUNTY, INDIANA JAIL BUILDING CORPORATION AND JEFFERSON COUNTY, INDIANA

The Board of Commissioners of Jefferson County, Indiana (the "County") have executed a Lease, dated as of February 11, 2021, between the Jefferson County, Indiana Jail Building Corporation (the "Corporation"), as lessor, and the County, as lessee (the "Lease").
The leased premises (the "Premises") under the Lease consists of all or a portion of the existing County jail facility located at 317 Walnut Street, Madison, Indiana 47250 and the new County jail facility located at 1150 J.A. Berry Lane, Madison, Indiana 47250, and the real estate on which such facilities are or will be located (the "Project"). The proposed lease is for a term of up to twenty (20) years commencing on the date of issuance of bonds of the Corporation to finance the Project (the "Bonds"). The annual lease rental will not exceed Two Million Nine Hundred Thousand Dollars ($2,900,000) payable in semi-annual installments on January 1 and July 1 of each year during the term of the Lease. Each rental installment shall be based on the value of the portion of the Premises which will be complete and ready for use and occupancy by the County at the time such semi-annual installment is made. As additional rental, the County shall maintain insurance on the Premises as required in the Lease and shall pay all taxes and assessments against such property, as well as the cost of alterations and repairs. After a sale of the Bonds, the yearly rental, payable in semiannual installments on each January 1 and July 1 shall be reduced to the multiple of $1,000 next higher than the principal and interest due on the Bonds in each twelve month period commencing on July 1, plus $7,000, payable in such semiannual installments. The County has previously imposed the income tax on the taxpayers of the County pursuant to IC 6-3.6 (the "LIT") and allocated a portion of the additional revenue category of the expenditure rate of the LIT to the sub-category of public safety (the revenues from such public safety sub-category, the "Public Safety Revenues"). To assist in the financing of the Project by the County, the City of Madison, Indiana (the "City") has agreed that the County shall receive 50% of the portion of the Public Safety Revenues received by the City (such portion of Public Safety Revenues received by the County, the "City Contribution"). The County shall pay lease rentals under the Lease solely from (i) the revenues of (a) the adjusted gross income tax levied and collected by the County pursuant to Indiana Code § 6-3.6-6-2.7 (the "Jail Income Tax Revenues"), (b) the share of the Public Safety Revenues received by the County (the "County Public Safety Revenues"), and (c) the City Contribution (the Jail Income Tax Revenues, the County Public Safety Revenues, and the City Contribution, collectively, the "Income Tax Revenues"), and (ii) to the extent that the Income Tax Revenues are insufficient to pay such amounts, from the revenues of an ad valorem tax levied by the County on all taxable property in the County pursuant to the IC 36-1-10-17.
The Lease gives an option to the County to purchase the Premises. The Project will be used for the purposes of providing incarceration, community corrections or other law enforcement or criminal justice services by the County.
Dated this 20th day of February, 2021.

More letters on love

Dear Readers: Recently, I asked you to write in with what you love most about your partners. I received enough responses to fill a book. I printed some on Valentine's Day, but I'd like to print a few more — because these letters brought me such joy that it seems wrong to keep them to myself. Read on for a smile.

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: What I love most about my husband is that after more than 30 years he is still my best friend, and he cherishes me. We started as friends, eventually became lovers, and then were married. Our genuinely liking each other as people has kept us together through the rough patches. However I look on the outside, I know my husband loves me for the person I am on the inside — and he would give his dying breath to ensure I was safe and happy. My mother told me that passion is important, and it may seem cliche, but you needed to like the person you are with or the relationship was doomed to flame out. I guess Momma did know a few things. — D. Perry

Dear Annie: I can't properly describe what I love most about my wife in one letter, but I'll try. I love her with every fiber of my being and could go on for hours with different stories about why I love her so much and what she has done for me. We started dating in high school and got married about three years later. We still celebrate the anniversary of our Jan. 7 first date. I send her a "love" email every morning telling her how special she is and what she means to me. We have three beautiful grown daughters whose careers are in the service of others. Since my wife is a nurse, I know where they got it. — MJN

Dear Annie: I met my husband, John, in September 1964. We married the day after Christmas in 1964. He was in the Air Force, and we traveled near and far for the nine years we were married. We had a son in 1966. In 1973, John developed symptoms of heart problems and had to undergo open-heart surgery. While he was in the hospital, I found out I was pregnant with our second child, and we were both ecstatic. However, he didn't survive to see his new daughter, who was born in December 1973. It has been almost 48 years since he passed, and I still love him. I had his two children and that was enough for me. In 2006, my son passed away with pretty much the same problems as his dad. So, now it's just my daughter and me. We live together and get along splendidly.

My husband was the love of my life. When I think of him (which is often), I still feel the love and thrill of being by his side for almost nine years. Even though I have missed him terribly over the years, I wouldn't have changed one minute of the journey — except to have him live to see his daughter and be by my side again. — Alone but Not Unhappy

Dear Annie: I have had a miscarriage, a mastectomy, leukemia and chemotherapy, and at one point I came close to a mental breakdown. Through it all, my husband did not waiver. He held me while I cried over the baby we would never have. He kissed the scar where my breast was removed. He watched over me while I was going through chemotherapy — and helped care for my newly widowed mother at the same time. That, Annie, is a real husband and an amazing human being. — One Lucky Wife

A new beginning up north

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: Please help me. I am in my mid-40s and have been with a man for seven and a half years. He has four children who I absolutely adore. His youngest is 12. We started dating when she turned 5. We have had them full time for the past seven years. I have gotten pregnant five times with this man. There were three miscarriages and two other babies who passed away due to complications at birth. My son had no lungs; he was born at 20 weeks. My daughter passed away in 2017 at eight days old.

This man has never had a single conversation with me about any of the babies that passed away. But he will talk to family members and co-workers freely about it.

He cheated on me at least two times that I know of, though he denies it to this day.

This past October, I moved six hours away from our home in Massachusetts up to the Canadian border. He and the kids were supposed to come, but he pulled out at the last minute and has left me in limbo with where we stand.

I cry a lot over missing the older kids back home.

Please help me to understand why I'm holding onto something that is a lost cause.

In addition to being untrustworthy, untruthful and uncommunicative, he is not very kind, appreciative or affectionate toward me. He would often diminish my feelings and make me second-guess my own feelings. He has never stuck up for me or backed me up, ever.

When I try to communicate with him, I'll say something like, "Hey, can we talk?" and he says, "We are talking."

Not only did I take care of him and his kids for the past seven years. I also drove him to work and picked him up everyday with not so much as a thank you.

My main question is, what in the world is wrong with me? Why am I more concerned with what he wants than what I want? Why am I holding on to a loveless, unhappy relationship?

I love living up North. It's beautiful. I have no intention of ever going back to Massachusetts. I truly feel like I lived in a foreign land my whole life and I'm finally home.

Please give it to me straight. I have been through a lot. I can handle it. — Feeling Sad in Northern Maine

Dear Feeling Sad in Northern Maine: You have already had to handle a great deal of neglect and abuse in your relationship, and now it is time to exit stage left as soon as possible. I'm almost positive you know the answer to your question, but you have to say to yourself, "Enough is enough." You are holding onto this loveless and unhappy marriage because it has become a habit.

It is difficult to change even if we know that changing is the best thing for ourselves. The very fact you wrote me this letter signals that you are ready for a new beginning. Leaving him will take courage and might be very uncomfortable, but like most worthwhile endeavors, if you put in the commitment and hard work, the payoff will be immense. You will no longer have to suffer.

Seeking the help of a trained professional therapist will help you move forward powerfully, learn more about setting boundaries and discover how worthy you are of love and respect.

6th-ranked Ripley uses big 3rd quarter to blow out Switzerland

BY COURIER STAFF REPORT

Class 2A No. 6 South Ripley used a huge third quarter to blow out Switzerland County 83-41 in boys basketball on Wednesday in Versailles.

The host Raiders led 17-7 after the first quarter but still took only a 33-24 lead into halftime as Switzerland hung tough over the second eight minutes. But all of that changed in the third quarter when Ripley ripped off a 31-4 run to blow open the game and then cruise to the win.

Ben Hicks scored 14 points to lead Switzerland and was the only Pacer in double figures. Trace Johnson had seven points and seven rebounds while Nate Geyman also had seven points. Bryce Wrightsman added six points and Jacob Williams had four.

South Ripley had four players in double figures led by a game-high 28 points by Cody Samples. Jaden Peetz scored 19, Zach Gentile 14 and Bryce Franklin 10.

Switzerland (3-17, 1-4 Ohio River Valley Conference) hosts South Dearborn today and heads to Southwestern on Tuesday.

Hanover volleyball falls to Franklin
